Art Unit: 3728

DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35

U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 9-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Claim 9 contains the limitations of the footbed having a flat bottom surface and an upper surface which has raised peripheral edges at the mid-portion that slope gradually downward from each edge; a shim member (the wedges were disclosed as being part of the footbed canting assembly and not a shim, see page 3, paragraph 2.). Claim 17 contains limitations with similar language to claim 9 as noted above. Claims 16 and 23 contain the limitations of "the left wedge, the right wedge, and the unconnected central area therebetween in total are about 5 to 35% narrower than the corresponding mid-portion location of the footbed assembly." Which is not supported by the disclosure as the disclosure fails to mention any of this comparison as filed and one cannot gather this information from the drawings filed with the application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-6 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Herbig 4,166,329. Herbig '329 discloses all the limitations of the claims including the following: a shoe comprising a shoe having an upper, a sole and an adjustable footbed canting assembly (see Figures 1-3); an adjustably movable side wedge 13 which moves predominantly laterally relative to the length-wise axis of the shoe (moves laterally when the adjusting screw 16 is turned) to change the transverse canting attitude of the footbed canting assembly relative to a weight-bearing foot thereover and supported thereon; means to prevent entry of unwanted foreign matter (shoe upper is fastened to the user's foot); the adjustable support means is not removable from the shoe (cannot be easily or quickly removed until screw is fully removed from the assembly); the adjustable movable side wedge is moved by a manually operable means 22; the manually operable means comprises a manually adjusted cam 13 located in a mid-portion of the shoe forward of the breast of the heel (see Figure 1); the manually operable means are controlled from an outer surface of the shoe (see Figures 1 and 3); the adjustable footbed canting assembly is removably insertable in the shoe (can be removed once screw 16 is removed).

5. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rosen 3,686,777. Rosen '777 discloses all the limitations of the claims including the following: a shoe comprising a shoe having an upper, a sole and an adjustable footbed canting assembly (see Figure 1); an adjustably movable side wedge 21, 23 which moves predominantly laterally relative to the length-wise axis of the shoe to change the transverse canting attitude of the footbed canting assembly relative to a weight-bearing foot thereover and supported thereon (moves inward or outward depending upon the adjustment of cam 40; means to prevent entry of unwanted foreign matter (shoe is fastened to user's foot); the adjustable support means is not removable from the shoe (located within shoe and held in by slotted knob 48); the adjustable movable side wedge is moved by a manually operable means 48; the manually operable means comprises a manually adjusted cam 40 located in a mid-portion of the shoe forward of the breast of the heel (see Figures 1 and 2); the manually operable means are controlled from an outer surface of the shoe (see Figures 1 and 2); the manually operable means are controlled from an inner surface of the shoe (in as much as that which is disclosed by applicant); the adjustable footbed canting assembly is removably insertable in the shoe (if the knob is removed).
